ALREADYMADE

Director Barbara Visser

Barbara Visser

In ALREADYMADE, originality, authorship and identity are put on the line - as was the case of the artwork 'Fountain' in 1917 - but this time using means available today.

A chess-playing dandy, a nymphomaniac baroness and an unknown third party claim authorship of the most influential work of art of the 20th century, entitled Fountain. In the film ALREADYMADE, many years, theories and publications later, the three eccentric artists come up with an explanation themselves. But who advocates which reading of art history? And who is using who in this web of conflicting forces? What is the hidden agenda of each protagonist...and that of the filmmaker herself?

CRAZY DAYS - OR MAKING AN OPERA IN PANDEMIC TIMES

Sanne Rover

What do you do when a global pandemic frustrates a sold-out international opera production? CRAZY DAYS is about the importance of art in crazy times.

Autumn 2020. An international cast arrives in Amsterdam for the rehearsals of Mozart's 'Le nozze di Figaro' by the Dutch National Opera. Not even a pandemic could stop this opera train. But the measures are strict: only 30 people are allowed in the rehearsal room and masks are mandatory during singing. And when the opera house has to close, everyone's worst fears come true. What is an opera without an audience? How do they ensure that all the hard work has not been in vain?

DARKNESS THERE AND NOTHING MORE

Tea Tupajić

Many years after the war, the Bosnia-born director invites two Dutchbat veterans who served during the fall of Srebrenica to spend a night in her company.

Tea Tupajić was seven years old when the civil war in the former Yugoslavia reached her home town of Sarajevo. The scars that the war left play a major role in her work as an artist. Tupajić asked Dutchbat veterans Frank and Harm to spend a night in conversation with her. The empty theatre gradually darkens. Tupajić wants answers to some painful questions, but she also tries to discover something in the two men that can give her hope.

DRAMAYAMA

Jeanette Groenendaal

A journey Inside; an Astrological Cosmic Dance beyond the End of the Mayan Calendar.

Experience space time travel through past, present and future through the eyes of Guatemalan timekeeper Branly Gio Lopez. Ever since the 'End of the Mayan calendar' Branly has researched the meaning of Mayan Cosmology, trying to recover ancient rituals and knowledge painfully devastated by 500 years of colonization. During his vision quest he slowly recognizes deep roots in the echoes of an old civilisation. Meanwhile the volcano erupts, the temple elephant dies and the turtle breathes home.

Ingrid Kamerling

Based on the myth of Echo and Narcissus, this feature documentary explores the relationship between people in detention under hospital orders, and their caregivers.

During theatre rehearsals based on the myth of Echo and Narcissus, the tension between people in detention under hospital orders and caregivers increases. In the seclusion of the clinic, four staff members sympathize with four patients and their hardships. The contact brings them closer together, culminating in a highly emotional climax. Although staff members can walk out the door after a long day, they are drawn to the edge of the abyss, where they once stood themselves. The question arises: who needs who more?

FOUR JOURNEYS

Louis Hothothot

I travel back home to China to revisit my family and my illegal childhood.

As a second child I was deemed illegal because of China's One Child policy. My father had to pay three years' salary and give up his political career for me to be born. After living in Europe, I travel back home to revisit my illegal childhood and the guilt I feel towards my parents who paid such an expensive price for my delivery. While I'm trying to fix our broken relationship, they are pushing me to have kids. A beautiful family story set against the backdrop of the last 40 years of China.

HOUSEWITZ

Oeke Hoogendijk

In HOUSEWITZ, daughter and filmmaker Oeke Hoogendijk tries to discover the reason for her mother's categorical refusal to leave her house.

Lous Hoogendijk-de Jong literally hasn't been outside her home for dozens of years. She has a recurring nightmare which she puts down to the day when, as a Jewish girl, she was taken from her house and deported to the Nazi camps. What seems perfectly ordinary in this film at first sight - a woman in a living room watching TV with her cat - gradually turns into an oppressive reality where the inside and outside worlds are at odds and housemate 'Holocaust' is a daily presence.

JASON

Maasja Ooms

A painfully frank portrait of 22-year-old Jason as he undergoes trauma therapy.

Director Maasja Ooms closely follows Jason as he struggles with the psychological effects of a traumatic childhood, which intensified even more when he was taken into juvenile residential care at the age of 16. During intense therapy sessions, it becomes clear how much he has been harmed, and how far-reaching the consequences can be when wrong decisions are made in the youth care system.

THE KIEV FILES

Walter Stokman

Constant control by the state creates personal uncertainty, which leads to caution and covert behaviour, and ultimately to (self) deception and betrayal.

In Ukraine, the KGB archive of countless files containing reports on covert observations has been made accessible to the public. What happens once you find out that the state has been watching you for years? Based on encounters with people who are confronted with their own surveillance reports, the film sketches a time when the paranoia of the Soviet regime infiltrated into private lives.

KING OF AMSTERDAM: WON YIP

Sarah Vos & Sander Snoep

Portrait of the hospitality boss and multi-millionaire Won Yip.

KING OF AMSTERDAM is a documentary portrait of the hospitality boss and multi-millionaire Won Yip. At the age of 18, his father made him the paterfamilias. He was the one who should take care of the entire family - a destiny he could not escape. It becomes clear that the empire he built has nothing to do with the desire for success and fame, but shows instead how, like a Godfather, Won Yip seeks to achieve the familial task he has been set.

L'AMOUR ET LA MORT

Ramón Gieling

Musical film essay about the secret union between love and death.

Is love actually a synonym for suffering and therefore comparable to an illness? Various characters make essential confessions of love to us, in which the – sometimes unliveable – contradiction is the great parameter. Based on the stories of a number of characters, the film explores, under the various notions of love, a deeper, irrational meaning in the perspective of mortality. The music that played an important role in the lives of the characters will give their story a deeper emotional layer.

THE LAST DISENCHANTING DAYS

Jan Willem van Dam & Najat Mohammed

When Freddy, Jan Willem Van Dam's favourite 'actor,' becomes seriously ill, the filmmaker has a problem, because a new film starring Freddy is planned, one whose original idea is to find out the origin of Freddy's problems...

Because Freddy (Quamé Nyantakyi) was too sick to travel, Van Dam went to the country from which Freddy's forefathers were taken away as slaves. This leads Van Dam to a society where being gay is illegal and where people are very religious. He is determined to pose a series of questions to the local population, whether intellectuals or people living far from the so-called 'civilized world'. Then he meets Najat Mohammed, who becomes co-filmmaker. Together they not only examine various modern themes but also set out to tell a story full of confrontational views and adult drama, and also humour.

LESSONS FOR LUCA

Salvador Gieling

A Cuban farmer gets a six-year sentence for selling his own cow. In this family saga a personal story is inseparably intertwined with the wider Cuban history.

Belga and Salvador (a Cuban mother and a Dutch father and filmmaker) undertake the impossible by trying to explain to their two year-old son Luca the absurd story of his Cuban uncle Ezequiel, who has been sentenced to six years in prison for selling his own cow. They travel to the remote village of Sibanicú in the heart of Cuba, where Ezequiel's criminal case, as well as the intimate story of Belga's family, turns out to be a consequence of the greater Cuban history.

LICHT. STOCKHAUSEN'S LEGACY

Oeke Hoogendijk

LICHT recreates Stockhausen's musical universe through the making of the megalomaniac opera Aus Licht, against the backdrop of his dramatic life story.

Brilliant. Megalomaniac. Unstageable – some words to describe the opera cycle Licht, the most radical project in the history of music theatre, written by the legendary and controversial composer Karlheinz Stockhausen. The Dutch National Opera and Holland Festival staged Licht in 2019. Oeke Hoogendijk documented the path to this frenzied opera spectacle. The film recreates Stockhausen's musical universe through the making of the opera, against the backdrop of his dramatic life story.

LOOK WHAT YOU MADE ME DO

Coco Schrijber

LOOK WHAT YOU MADE ME DO presents love and what it might lead to. A film about anger that is hidden so deep inside that it can suddenly erupt like a volcano.

Luca fights for her life within a violent marriage. Her struggle is commented on by three women who have killed their husbands to survive. The famous painting by Artemisia Gentileschi in which Judith slits her rapist's throat is the daring embodiment of this film: embrace the violence within and you will be free. A film that is like a hurricane, about women as perpetrators, as opposed to women as the eternal victim.

A MARBLE TRAVELOGUE

Sean Wang

Marble mined in Greece takes us on an Odyssey of globalization driven by the Chinese economy.

Blocks of white marble from a Greek quarry are shipped to China, where sculptors turn them into Hellenistic-style statues and columns. The leftover grit is processed into souvenirs, which are returned to Europe and sold to Chinese tourists. With both a light touch and a smattering of wry humour, the film portrays the chain that connects this cyclical marble route that runs from capital to manufacture, to wholesale and retail through to the consumer, and along which we encounter a panoply of human and globalisation landscapes driven by the Chinese economy.

ME AND MY PET

Johan Kramer

A nuanced and at times tragicomic quest into whether we need pets to fill a gap that should actually be filled by humans.

Can pets fill a gap that should actually be filled by humans? To what extent do we project our own shortcomings and desires onto our lovely animals? The main characters in the documentary all have a void to fill in their own way. We observe their relationship with their pets and follow them as they set out to overcome their fears and insecurities, and try to immerse themselves further into the human world.

THE MIRROR AND THE WINDOW

Diego Gutiérrez

What could happen if we lose contact with everyone and everything we know? A farewell and an expedition. An attempt to deal with departing life.

Two individuals in two different parts of the world ask filmmaker Diego Gutiérrez to film them; his best friend and his mother. They both know they have little time to live. The sense of their lives' impending end triggers a journey. A voyage to a place with no trail of human existence, a potential vacuum of colour and sound. While listening to his loved ones, by mirroring with them and by being part of this journey, the filmmaker tries to get close to that which has no explanation.

MOTHERS

Nirit Peled

A film that tells the story of youth criminality in Amsterdam through the testimonies of mothers.

Nirit Peled shows the influence of Amsterdam's data-driven crime prevention program on the lives of the mothers of young boys who are on the Top 400 list. These stories tell us about motherhood and love, about their daily challenges, and the powerlessness they feel as they watch their sons slide into crime. We learn that once their sons are listed, the lives of the mothers undergo dramatic change, and how they feel they are held hostage by aid organizations, the police and youth care.

MYANMAR DIARIES

Myanmar Film Collective

A hybrid film by the anonymous Myanmar Film Collective about life under Myanmar's junta regime of terror, told via intimate and personal stories.

Since the military coup of February 1 2021, which resulted in nationwide protests, thousands of peaceful protesters have been imprisoned and murdered. Alternating between documentary and fiction, MYANMAR DIARIES is a seamless whole in which the filmmakers find innovative and creative ways to tell personal stories while at the same time maintaining the anonymity of their protagonists. An extremely urgent film made in a time when the subject of Myanmar has all but disappeared from the news.

NIKKI

Monique Nolte

Struggling with her absent father and a psychologically damaged mother, an intelligent girl (12) must choose between herself and her parents.

Nikki (12) has lots of potential but her path to a bright future is jeopardized by her mother, a woman with borderline personality disorder, and her absentee father who struggles with addiction and whose occasional reappearances severely disrupt Nikki's mental state. Her graduation at high school is bittersweet. With a diploma that doesn't reflect her potential, and showing signs of mental issues herself, Nikki is far from out of the woods. Will she follow in her mother's footsteps?

O, COLLECTING EGGS DESPITE THE TIMES

Pim Zwier

An unconventional documentary set around the beginning of WWII that reveals German ornithologist Max Schönwetter's fascination for the egg.

O is set in the first half of the 20th century when German ornithologist Max Schönwetter is devoting himself to his life's work, the scientific handbook of the egg. As he collects and studies 19,206 eggs, WWII breaks out. It is an archive film, based on the historical correspondences of Schönwetter. Different passages form a collage of voice-overs, while in staged scenes the documentary contrasts Schönwetter's small world of egg collecting with enormous events unfolding on the world stage.

ORANJE - THIS GREAT A SMALL VILLAGE CAN BE

Sander Francken

In 2014 a Dutch village of 150 inhabitants was saddled with 1400 asylum seekers. A popular uprising was imminent. What happened next, nobody expected...

In 2014, a center for 1,400 asylum seekers was established in Oranje, a Dutch village with only 150 inhabitants. A popular uprising was imminent. The village became a symbol of the general fear that the Netherlands would be overrun by refugees. When the news cameras left, director Sander Francken and producer Robbert van Lanschot started filming, and they continued filming until the center closed in 2017. No one expected what subsequently happened in and around this village after that turbulent start...

PAUL BLANCA, THIS FILM WILL SAVE YOUR LIFE

Ramón Gieling

Because of his uncompromising behaviour, Paul Blanca, one of the most important photographers in the Netherlands, is in danger of disappearing into obscurity.

A film about the photographer Paul Blanca, who after a lifetime of drug and alcohol abuse died at the age of 62 in October 2021. In a possibly futile attempt to save a fading life from an inglorious demise, filmmaker Ramón Gieling filmed Paul Blanca on what turned out to be his last journey. With the camera we witness Blanca's struggle against the transience of his body and the inexorable passing of time. Until finally only photos remain.

RULES OF WAR

Guido Hendrikkx

A former diplomat and military expert ventures inland across South Sudan to teach paramilitaries the rules of war.

RULES OF WAR is a report of the spectacular journey through the South Sudanese jungle by former diplomat and military expert Albert Schoneveld (50), who will teach war ethics on behalf of the Red Cross to rebel groups. On the one hand, the film shows how a Western ideal finds its way into the unruly African reality. On the other hand, it is a social deconstruction of a metaphorical encounter between two worlds. A clash between the West and Africa. Between White and Black. Between a colonial history and a post-colonial perception.

Shamira Raphaëla

When Shabu wrecks his grandmother's car he has to make amends before she returns from a vacation in Suriname.

When 14-year-old Shabu wrecks his grandmother's car on a joyride, his whole family is furious with him, so he must make amends before she returns from a vacation in Suriname. His mother suggests he should sell popsicles to pay for the damage, but that would hardly get him very far. SHANGRI-LA (PARADISE UNDER CONSTRUCTION)

Mirka Duijn

In a travelogue through Shangri-La, a Tibetan tourist area named after the fictional paradise, the filmmaker excavates the many layers of fact and fiction.

A travelogue through Shangri-La, a fictitious paradise from the British classic novel Lost Horizon. Twenty years ago, scientific evidence seemed to indicate that a Tibetan tourist spot in China was the real Shangri-La. In her search for the truth behind this supposed evidence, the filmmaker excavates the myriad layers of fact and fiction within the area. What words and images have attached themselves to facts? How do stories come into being? And how do they shape reality?

SI FAN

Frank Scheffer

In fast-changing China, composer Guo Wenjing seeks a way to preserve the country's opera tradition by blending it with Western music.

Si Fan (which means 'yearning for love') is a Chinese opera composed by Guo Wenjing. In Frank Scheffer's documentary Si Fan, Guo combines traditional opera from his native Sichuan with his own modern music. "I don't think, when composing, I follow my heart," Guo tells Ed Spanjaard, conductor of the Nieuw Ensemble, who comes to China to master the new composition. In this painstaking film, star singer Shen Tiemei represents the voice of the Sichuan opera.

SOIL

Mark Verkerk

We want to amaze the audience with a nature film about the world just below our feet. What do we actually know about our soil?

1.6 trillion organisms live in 0.3 cubic meters of healthy soil. There are more organisms in one gram of soil than there are people on Earth. An earthworm digests its own weight in soil every 24 hours. It is high time for a film in which soil life takes centre stage. Over past decades, people have increasingly been 'unrooted' from nature. As a result, many people feel a deep sense of loss and alienation. This film places us firmly back on Earth.

THE TASTE OF DESIRE

Willemiek Kluijfhout

A cinematic exploration of our deepest yearnings for the oyster as a symbol of human drive and desire.

In this poetic voyage around the world, the oyster - with its sensual and lavish associations – acts as a metaphor to explore our human drives and desires. Linking stories of a New York burlesque dancer, French Michelin-starred chefs, a Swedish oyster diver, a Japanese pearl maker and a terminally ill English psychologist, the documentary dives into the intricate nature of our deepest yearnings and quest for self-fulfilment. To what lengths will we go to satisfy our desires?

THOU SHALT NOT KILL - TRAIN HIJACK DE PUNT

Koert Davidse

'The beginning of a case always seems hopeless, but that is no reason not to start'.*

In the spring of 1977, a group of young South Moluccans hijacks a train in De Punt in the north of the Netherlands. During the rescue operation six hijackers are killed. In 2014, two of the hijackers' families sue the Dutch state. According to their lawyer Liesbeth Zegveld, they were deliberately shot dead even after the threat had been eliminated. The documentary raises the question of how transparent the Dutch state is about the use of deadly state violence.

THREE MINUTES - A LENGTHENING

Bianca Stigter

THREE MINUTES - A LENGTHENING examines a home movie shot in 1938 in a Jewish town in Poland and delays its ending. An essay about film, history and memory.

THREE MINUTES – A LENGTHENING presents a home movie shot by David Kurtz in 1938 in a Jewish town in Poland and tries to postpone its ending. The film is a haunting essay about history and memory. As long as we are watching, history is not over yet. The three minutes of footage, mostly in color, are the only moving images left of the Jewish inhabitants of Nasielsk before the Holocaust. Those precious minutes are examined moment by moment to unravel the human stories hidden in the celluloid. Different voices enhance the images: Glenn Kurtz, grandson of David Kurtz, and Maurice Chandler, who appears in the footage as a young boy. Actress Helena Bonham Carter narrates the film.

TURN YOUR BODY TO THE SUN

Aliona van der Horst

A daughter attempts to retrace her father's steps against the backdrop of the Second World War and the dictatorships of Stalin and Hitler.

A daughter searches for her father's past in this poetically crafted film, set against the backdrop of World War II and the dictatorships of Hitler and Stalin. Sana Valiulina's father Sandar was a Red Army soldier who was taken prisoner in Nazi Germany, a fate he shared with five million others. After the war, back in Stalin's Soviet Union, he was sentenced to ten years in a Gulag camp for betraying his country. There he began receiving letters from a young girl, which helped him survive...

UP TO G-CUP

Jacqueline van Vugt

In UP TO G-CUP, filmmaker Jacqueline van Vugt portrays intimate stories and the emotional outpourings within Kurdistan's first lingerie store.

In the documentary UP TO G-CUP, filmmaker Jacqueline van Vugt portrays intimate stories and the emotional outpourings within Kurdistan's first lingerie store. The film is an honest and compelling film in which women are portrayed in a world dominated by war, faith, men, their mothers and grandmothers. The film powerfully demonstrates self-determination, sensitivity, sensuality and sexuality.

THE VOICE OF BUTTERFLIES

Rosemarie Blank

Bostjan, a passionate entomologist, breeds butterflies in his one-room apartment in Berlin, feeding and releasing them once they have mated and laid eggs.

Bostjan Dvorak moves through Berlin like a hunter without a gun, finding caterpillars in forgotten and dusty corners of metro stations, a million miles from places once called nature. After breeding the caterpillars in his small apartment and helping the resulting butterflies to mate, he releases them back into the wild. The passionate amateur entomologist doesn't discuss the threat of global extinction, he just helps in the process of reproduction. What's more, Bostjan's own existence seems no less precarious than theirs.

WE DON'T TALK

Marjolein Busstra

A documentary about young people who have been victims of sexual abuse and exploitation, trying to get their lives back on track through therapy.

WE DON'T TALK is an intriguing documentary of in-depth conversations between the rapists and youngsters who are entangled in the complex network of sexual violence and exploitation. It takes us into the inner struggle of four characters in their process to break free from this world. The film offers an intimate insight into their reminiscence of their experiences and process of extrication, where their distorted self-judgment of guilt and shame holds them captive.
